Angie Fitzpatrick, Ph.D., is a leadership coach and organizational development consultant committed to helping women lead with clarity, confidence, and impact. With nearly two decades of experience in leadership development, Angie supports clients in turning vision into action through strategies that are both structured and values-driven.

That journey, combined with her background in marketing, informs her ability to guide others in building purposeful businesses and crafting authentic, effective outreach. Based in Ohio, Angie partners with women-led businesses and organizations nationwide, bringing insight, pragmatism, and care to every collaboration. She is excited to be part of the HerHub USA team and to connect with other women leaders who are making an impact.
